FOREWORD

What is wanting in this bibliography the reader will only too soon discover for himself. I do not, however, wish to offer any apology for my work. Begun in 1915 as a card index of available plays it grew to such proportions that I was easily induced to have it appear in printed form. It was published in a small paper-covered volume in 1919 and it served many producers and play-reading committees in lieu of a more extended work. The present edition has been made as complete as possible under the conditions.

I have purposely refrained from including those plays which are not adapted to the little theatre as it is at present constituted. The plays listed are the best available in printed formats. It may be noted here that many very excellent plays produced by art theatres never appear in print. Such plays may be obtained from the author or the organization first presenting them.

For the convenience of the reader I have placed anthologies and collections in a separate section. This, in no small way, will simplify the purchase of plays.

THREE MODERN JAPANESE PLAYS

Translated by

Yozan T. Iwasaki and Glenn Hughes

THESE short plays, while different one from the other, are the direct result of Western influences and are representative of the new drama movement in Japan, which is, not supplanting, but very decidedly challenging the No, the Kabuki, and the Doll-play.

The Razor, (5m. 1w.) a drama in one act, by Kickizo Nackamura, was first published in Japan in 1914. Within one year it had been performed seventy-one times in the principal cities of Japan and Manchuria. The Madman on the Roof, (5m. 2w.) a play in one act, by Kan Kikuchi, was published in 1919, and in 1920 it was produced at the Imperial Theatre, Tokyo. Kikuchi is considered one of the most clever and versatile writers in Japan and is in great demand among Japanese readers. Nari-kin, (5m. 2w.) a farce in one act and two scenes, by Yozan T. Iwasaki, was written in 1919 and has been produced many times. Mr. Iwasaki was born in Japan, received his education there and in the United States, and for several years has lived in Seattle, where among other activities he has directed the work of play production for Jiyu-geki-dan, a Japanese dramatic company devoted to the presentation in Japanese for Japanese audiences of the plays of such dramatists as Ibsen, Shaw, Tolstoi, Hauptmann, Strindberg, and the newer dramatists of Japan.

STEWART KIDD PUBLISHERS

FIVE ONE-ACT COMEDIES

By Lawrence Langner

Introduction by St. John Ervine

THESE one-act comedies have unusual variety and originality, and have been produced successfully by the Washington Square Players, the Provincetown Players, and other theatre groups throughout the country. Mr. Langner posesses that gift which is rarest in American playwrights—a keen sense of satire and a sure touch. His comedies, which read as well as they act, show a humorous understanding of human relations and institutions. Mr. Langner was one of the founders of the Washington Square Players and the Theatre Guild, and is a pioneer in the new theatre movement in America. As George Jean Nathan says: "This Langner will bear watching. He is a fellow of ideas and genuine humor."

The plays are: Matinata (2 m. 1 w.) Another Way Out (2 m. 3 w.) The Family Exit (4 m. 3 w.) Pie (2 m. 2 w.) Licensed (1 m. 2 w.) Roscoe W. Brink in the New York Tribune: "Smart, finished and polished things they are." Houston Post: "Refreshing plays, streaked with humor and originality." New York Evening Post: "Sure comedy touch, clever dialogue and actable scenes." George Bernard Shaw, in a letter to the author: "The plays are very good: I read them all through with undiminished appetite; and so did my wife."

Silk, cloth. 165 pages. 12mo. $2.00.

¾ Turkey Morocco, $7.50.

Fifty Contemporary One-Act Plays

Edited by

FRANK SHAY and PIERRE LOVING

THIS volume contains FIFTY REPRESENTATIVE ONE-ACT PLAYS of the MODERN THEATER, chosen from the dramatic works of contemporary writers all over the world and is the second volume in the Stewart Kidd Dramatic Anthologies, the first being European Theories of the Drama, by Barrett H. Clark, which has been so enthusiastically received.

The editors have scrupulously sifted countless plays and have selected the best available in English. One-half the plays have never before been published in book form; thirty-one are no longer available in any other edition.

The work satisfies a long-felt want for a handy collection of the choicest plays produced by the art theaters all over the world. It is a complete repertory for a little theater, a volume for the study of the modern drama, a representative collection of the world's best short plays.

TWENTY CONTEMPORARY ONE-ACT PLAYS AMERICAN

Edited by FRANK SHAY

THIS volume represents a careful and intelligent selection of the best One-act Plays written by Americans and produced by the Little Theatres in America during the season of 1921. They are representative of the best work of writers in this field and show the high level to which the art theatre has risen in America.

The editor has brought to his task a love of the theatre and a knowledge of what is best through long association with the leading producing groups.

The volume contains the repertoires of the leading Little Theatres, together with bibliographies of published plays and books on the theatre issued since January, 1920,

Aside from its individual importance, the volume, together with Fifty Contemporary One-Act Plays, will make up the most important collection of short plays published.

In the Book are
